

CHEMICAL & TOXIN EXPOSURE IN EVERYDAY PRODUCTS

How vulnerable are we in our homes and workplaces?

COMMON INJURIES FROM CHEMICAL EXPOSURE

When we are exposed to dangerous toxins and chemicals, we can suffer both short-term and long-term consequences. Here are just a few examples:

- Respiratory illnesses
- Lung diseases like mesothelioma
- Nerve damage
- Autism
- Cancers, including leukemia
- Birth defects
- Reproductive problems
- Loss of motor skills
- Organ damage (liver, brain, kidneys)

If your illness stems from exposure to dangerous chemicals or toxins, Steven H. Heisler can help.
